Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness means Nerve Weakness, or Nerve Weakness means the same. For blood will not work heart to it without it, to its work; then it is a case of stop, a halt; they have that really to all of both. Thus, one nerve weakness, Cardiac, or Heart Nervousness, pain, and palpitation, short breath, [illegible] sinking feeling, faint spells, [illegible] and all diseases and ailments also have their origin in nerve weakness.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative is not a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past given a month of work and of life to Hearts. Dr. Shoop's Restorative has given a life of health and happiness to many hundreds of heart sufferers. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a remedy of definite character directly for the heart, and for heart nerves—to make them strong and well. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is not a stimulant, not a habit forming drug, not a false tonic. It is a remedy for heart nerves—to make them as needed, well.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Good Times Come At Las'!

I been longin' an' skookin' fer ter see dat happy day
When a man kin mek a livin', an' a little time ter play,
An' owe no-body nothin' all de blessed year aroun',
An' sell his lates' pickins at eleben cent a poun'.
It look lak I would not be lef' ter see dat time arrive,
But, bless de Lord, it done come roun' an' I am still alive!
An' I's paid up ev'y dollar, an' I owns my little place
An' now I looks dis big roun' world right squarely in de face.
Ole Marster mighty good to us; de whitefolks treat us kin',
An' we aint fergit de favors when we foster git behin';
Lord, keep po good, an' give us streng' fer cultivate de groun',
An' don't let Cotton git below Eleben Cent a poun'!

GOOD INDICATION.—One of the best indications of the financial prosperity of a community is to be found in the condition of its banks. In this respect Springfield just now certainly makes a remarkably favorable showing. The statement of the two banks as made at the close of business on December 31st show a remarkably healthy condition in the matter of deposits it is clearly indicated that the people of the county are "well fixed" in the matter of ready money. The total deposits for the two Springfield banks figure out about $716,000 which is an increase over the amount on deposit one year ago of about $308,000. Tobacco is credited with the remarkable volume of money on deposit, yet it does not appear reasonable to give all of the credit to the tobacco sales, either. For the past several years with the possible exception of last season, the proceeds from tobacco sales have totaled an amount fully as great as this year. The farmers are evidently prospering in other lines as well as in tobacco.

VALUABLE—Stock in either one of the Springfield banks should be valuable properly according to the way bank stock is valued. Banks which pay ten and twelve per cent annual dividends such as do the Springfield banks, are desirable institutions in which to be interested from an investor's standpoint. Our banks will compare favorably with any in the country. Stock in the banks in the city of Louisville, which pay as high as ten per cent annual dividend, are quoted at over 200 and is eagerly sought by investors.

LINCOLN CELEBRATION.—Quite a number of local people are contemplating attending the Lincoln memorial celebration which is to take place at the Lincoln farm near Hodgenville on Feb. 12th and at which President Roosevelt has promised to be present and to officiate at the laying of the cornerstone to the monument. A good many people in this county and those who have given the matter any investigation are firm in the belief that Washington county has a superior claim as the birthplace of Lincoln over that of LaRue and for that reason do not grow enthusiastic over the proposed celebration down at Hodgenville. However, as Washington county's claim for the distinction has never been urged, although the proof has been most convincing, our people are not inclined to throw any cold water on LaRue county's celebration by bringing the matter up at this late day. The attendance of President Roosevelt on the occasion will guarantee a big crowd on Feb. 12th.

Simple Remedy for Lagrippe.

Cobless Corn is Latest.

A year ago H. J. Sconce and Taylor Garlough, of Vermillion county, Illinois, purchased a quantity of seed corn in Indiana. In the shipment was a freak ear, which, instead of the ordinary cob, was composed of a core of husk, the grains being neatly wrapped upon the soft foundation like peas in a pod.

Sconce was impressed with the novelty of the find and decided to plant all the kernels found on the freak ear. To his surprise the ears produced this fall were found to be exact reproductions of the single ear. He has decided to plant more of the corn next year, and will endeavor to improve on it. He believes that there is more to it than freakishness. The ears produced this year yielded as much corn as those provided with a cob, and the kernels were large and solid. The ears were well filled; kernels even growing among the silk.

As a result of this discovery the corn cob may disappear.—Ex

A Religious Author's Statement.

For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy.

Old Time Darkey.

Anthony Bradshaw died last Thursday in the Coleman neighborhood, on the Lexington pike. He had been sent to the barn by Judge Burke to get a horse, but remained so long some of the family went out to see about him and found him dead, having evidently died of heart disease. He was an old-time darkey, and one his white neighbors in speaking of him said that he would be missed as much as any man in that community. Many people will remember "Uncle Anthony" when he would lead the Shaker stock and Coleman cattle into the fair ring and how, when receiving a blue tie, he would waive his hat and march around the ring the ring shouting for joy.—Harrodsburg Herald.

A Horrible Hold-Up.

"About ten years ago my brother was held up" in his work, health and happiness by what was believed to be hopeless Consumption," writes W. R. Lipscomb, of Washington, N. C. "He took all kinds of remedies and treatment from several doctors, but found no help till he used Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by six bottles. He is a well man today." It's quick to relieve and the surest cure for weak or sore lungs, hemorrhages, coughs and colds, bronchitis, La grippe, asthma and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Haydon & Robertson.

They Came Back.

Quite a bit of excitement and worry was caused the police officials of several nearby towns and the relatives of Frank Moore and Eugene Cox, of Springfield, in the last few days. The two young fellows, both in their left home Tuesday night and though every effort was made to locate them, they could not be traced after their arrival in Lebanon. Yesterday they returned home. The boys had decided to leave home for good but soon tired of the outside world and were glad to return home.—Lebanon Falcon.

You would not delay taking Foley's Kidney Remedy at the first sign of kidney or bladder trouble if you realized that neglect might result in Bright's disease or diabetes. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities and cures all kidney and bladder disorders.

Poor Shots.

A pistol duel was fought on Walnut street in Danville last Thursday night between Officer Hanan and Edward Johnson, a negro. Ten shots were exchanged on that busy thoroughfare. There were many narrow escapes from stray bullets. Henson was trying to arrest Johnson for shooting at a man. He missed the man and hit Mary Harper who was passing. Johnson escaped.

President Helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial and Orphan's Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent remedy for Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates the vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up thin, pale, weak children or run-down people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50c at Haydon and Robertson.

PEGGY'S ADVICE.

Why It Suddenly Changed From Excellent to Worthless.

It was the era of the first Quincy baby, and the attention of the entire Quincy family, consisting solely of mother and father, was directed to the proper upbringing of the infant. Books on babyhood were bought and digested. Suitable magazines were subscribed for. Friends and mothers were consulted on every point. But, to the wonder of the solicitous, Mrs. Quincy declared that the advice that did the most good was that which appeared in the morning paper, signed with the fetching name "Peggy." But the time came when even that was discarded.

"Aren't you going to read me the little lesson from the Journal for today?" asked Mr. Quincy at the breakfast table.

"I shall never read that stuff to any one any more," said the mother firmly.

"Why not? Only day before yesterday you were saying what excellent recommendations Peggy made about erring children. Why do you desert her?"

"I'll tell you, Tom," she said. "I had meant not to say a word about it, because it is so humiliating, but now you've spoken—well, I might as well confess. The paper yesterday said something, I didn't quite understand, and, as I was downtown, I thought I'd just run into the office and ask Peggy what she meant. So I did. The office boy smiled when I asked for Peggy, but he took me up a lot of dirty stairs and then pointed to a door. I knocked, and a voice answered, 'Come in!'

"Well?" queried her husband.

"Well, there isn't any Peggy! Not a woman at all, but a perfectly horrid, grinning man, smoking a cigar! He writes that advice—a man! What do you think of that, Tom?"

Mrs. Quincy paused in her indignation.

"I thought you found the advice good, as a rule," he objected.

"Tom Quincy, how could a man in a newspaper office write good advice to mothers? I am surprised! You men think you know everything!"—Youth's Companion.

One Way of Getting Out.

Gaston burst like a whirlwind in upon his friend Alphonse. "Will you be my witness?" he cried.

"Going to fight?"

"No; going to get married."

Alphonse after a pause inquired. "Can't you apologize?"

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

A TRIBUTE

To the Memory of Mother Agnes Hunt of St. Catherines.

(Catholic Record.)

On Friday, Dec 4th, as the last note of the hymn to the Sacred Heart of Jesus floated toward the silent tabernacle, where the Sacred Host was exposed for the Holy Hour of Adoration, in St. Mary Magdalen's Chapel, St. Catharine of Sienna Heights, after having made her hour of adoration, our dear Sr Agnes Hunt, gently clasped her thin and transparent hands, raised her dark lustrous eyes to the crucifix and said, "Sweet Jesus, have mercy on my soul.—Jesus"—and 'ere the solemn strains of the Salva Regina, (as sung according to the Dominican Order, at the death bed of its members), were ended, her pure soul had passed to its eternal reward. She is another victim of the terrible fire that devastated St. Catharine's that dreadful night of January second, 1904.

Being Superior at that time, the burden of providing a home, and its comforts for the pupils, and the members of the Community, rested entirely upon her; these with the erection of the grand structure now upon Sienna Heights—the new Academy, we a constant strain upon her frail and delicate constitution, and soon brought on the dreadful disease consumption.

Sr Agnes was Miss Katie Hunt, of New York. She was the youngest of four children, and is survived by a brother, and one sister who is Superior to a convent in Chicago, Ill.

Sr. Agnes left all the world offers to the charming, cultured and refined lady, to enter the order of St Dominic, thirty-six years ago. She came to St. Catharine's when there was no railroad to Springfield, and part of the trip, from Lebanon to the Convent was made in the old stage-coach, which was considered a novel way of travelling, by one who had never been in a stage, and whose experience of country roads, and customs was very limited; many a time she spoke of her first ride in the old stage.

She was ever an active and useful member in the community, having taught schools in Kentucky, Illinois, Tennessee and Massachusetts, being one of the founders of the school in Watertown, where she was Superior for several years, before being elected prioress General of St. Catharine's in 1900. She is fondly remembered in Memphis, where she labored after the yellow fever of 1879, and with pleasure she often referred to St. Agnes Academy, and the sunny days in old Tennessee as —"fond memories".—Here was the death of the happy religious,—with the members of the community kneeling beside her, she asked the "Sacred Heart of Jesus to take her to Him that she might rest in Heaven."—He seemed to hear her, and answered, for she slept the peaceful sleep of a devoted and confiding child, after receiving the rites of the Church.

She rests in the Sister's cemetery, with the saintly founders of the Dominican Sisters in North America, down in the valley in the shadow of the crucifix,—'neath the pines, where the mocking birds sing their 'natin lay in praise of Him whom she loved, and served, and whose bible-sed Name was the last word uttered by her dying lips. May she rest in Peace!

Watermelons at Christmas.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—When Lee Hancock, who lives near Fairview, told the people who bought country produce from him last summer that he would be able to supply them with watermelons at Christmas, he was laughed at, but yesterday he made good his promise and brought to town a spring wagon load of as fine a specimen of juicy melons as one would expect to see in the good old summer time. These he sold at from 35c to 50c and from all outward indications they were just as palatable as if in the regular season.

There is no case on record of a cough, cold or lagrippe developing into pneumonia after Foley's Honey and Tar has been taken, as it cures the most obstinate deep seated coughs and colds. Why take anything else.

A CHARITY PATIENT.

The Price He Had to Pay For Expert Surgical Treatment.

The famous surgeon Velpeau was visited one day at his house during the consultation hour by a marquis renowned for his closeness. Velpeau informed the marquis that an operation was urgent and that the fee would amount to 4,000 francs. At this the marquis made a wry face and left. A fortnight later Dr. Velpeau, while making his rounds in the Hopital de la Charite, had his attention attracted by a face that seemed familiar to him. In answer to his inquiry it was stated that the patient was a footman of a nobleman in the Faubourg St. Germain. The surgeon found that his case resembled in every particular the somewhat unusual one for which the marquis had consulted him a fortnight previously. He refrained, however, from making any comments. Three weeks after the operation, when the patient was about to be discharged, Dr. Velpeau called him aside and exclaimed: "Monsieur, I am extremely flattered and pleased to have been able to cure you. There is, however, a small formality with which you will have to comply before I can sign your exeat—that is, you will have to sign a check for 10,000 francs in behalf of the public charity bureau of your metropolitan district." The patient's face became livid. "You can do what you like about it," continued the doctor, "but if you refuse all Paris will know tomorrow that the Marquis de D. adopted the disguise of a footman in order to secure free treatment at this hospital and to usurp the place which belongs by right to a pauper." Of course the marquis paid.—Argonaut.

Cy Young to Retire After Next Season.

The veteran Cy Young says that next season will wind up his career on the baseball diamond. Young also has induced the Boston American league club to retain his old side partner, Catcher Criger, for whom Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis recently made flattering offers. Young and Criger have been one of baseball's greatest batteries, and they want to stick together until they decide to leave the national game for all time.

No Football For Swarthmore.

The most startling and disconcerting phase of the present athletic situation at Swarthmore college, from the football enthusiast point of view, was disclosed recently when one of the highest members of the faculty said that intercollegiate football at the college was impossible. This news was disconcerting as well as unexpected to the student body, who to a man confidently expected the resumption of the sport next year.

A Pertinent Query.

Effie, the little daughter of a clergyman, pranced into her father's study one evening while the reverend gentleman was preparing a lengthy sermon for the following Sunday. She looked curiously at the manuscript for a moment and then turned to her father.

"Papa," she began seriously, "does God tell you what to write?"

"Certainly, dearie," replied the clergyman.

"Then why do you scratch so much of it out?" asked Effie.—Harper's Weekly.

Her Disposition.

At the time of the Cherry creek flood, which played havoc with the then struggling village of Denver, upon the outskirts of the settlement lived in a cabin an old character known as Beaver Bill and his wife. The freshet carried away everything, save Bill himself, upon the premises, including his spouse. The loss of her seemed to impress Beaver Bill more than the loss of other things, but a volunteer party worked valiantly to find her for him.

At last, wet and weary, they must [illegible] return to him failure.

"Where'd ye search?" he demanded.

"All the way downstream for two miles, Bill," they asserted.

"Oh, rats," he drawled disgusted. "You want to do your searchin' up stream. She's too confounded contrary ever to float down."—Bohemian.

ENDURANCE.

Dog Survived a Fast of Sixteen Days in a Sink-hole.

The most remarkable case of endurance and determination in a dog ever heard of comes from Glasgow. A small dog named "Nigger," and owned by Blacher Bohannon, who lives in Adair county, caught a crow. In the fight which followed the crow made its escape, and the dog in its chase after the crow fell into a cave or sinkhole. The owner paid no attention to the dog, thinking he would soon come out. When two or three days had elapsed and the dog had not come out Bohannon made an investigation and found the hole went some twenty feet almost perpendicularly. The dog could be heard down in the hole whining to get out. Thinking to make an open sufficient to rescue the dog, the owner dynamited several large stones away from he entrance and did considerable work, but realizing that no headway was made he abandoned he job and left "Nigger" to his fate. Sixteen days after the fight with the crow a little 12-year-old daughter of Mr. Bohannon went to the hole in the ground and called the dog. To her surprise he could be heard feebly whining to get out, and seemed much nearer the surface than before. The little girl sought her mother and begged to be allowed to crawl into the cave after her pet. This, of course, the mother denied, but accompanied her daughter to the cave and arrived just in time to see "Nigger" come out of the cave and lay down. He was so thin and exhausted that he could not walk and the light blinded him, but he rallied quickly after being fed. The supposition is he scratched a starting place at the bottom and gradually worked himself toward the top with almost human intelligence, and the task took him about sixteen days and nights without food or drink.

Charged With Lunacy.

A writ charging Harry Leachman With lunacy was issued by County Judge John A. Burton Wednesday, and placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Thompson. Leachman with a gun had badly frightened a number of people in the upper end of the county, and it was at their instance the warrant was issued. However, when the officer arrived the man had left the county, having returned to Washington county, where he lived. He was arrested Wednesday afternoon near Springfield, and that night he set fire to the bed in his cell at the county jail. However he was not injured. He was brought here yesterday afternoon, and will be tried in the county court this morning. Mr. Leachman has heretofore been in the insane asylum.—Lebanon Enterprise.

FOR COUNTY CLERK

We are authorized to announce W F. BOOKER as a candidate for the office of County Clerk subject to the action of the Democratic party, Election November 109.

FOR SHERIFF.

We are authorized to announce S. J. Anderson as a candidate for Sheriff of Washington county, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Deputies, H. R. Biddleman, Sam Hale, George Powell and Byron Croaker.

FOR ASSESSOR

W. T. MITCHELL as a candidate for Assessor of Washington county, subject to the action of the Democratic party. T. P. O'Bryan, Deputy. Election Nov. 1909.

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided the celebrated case of the old Cumberland & Ohio railroad bonds adversely to the county and Green county is now liable for the payment of $250,000 for a railroad which they did not get. The case had been in the courts for years until it has reached the court of last resort and the decision was made against the county and in favor of the railroad company. It places the people of Green county in an unfortunate position and there will doubtless be great difficulty in collecting the money. The sheriff of the county has already resigned his office rather than undertake the collection and there will be no end of trouble before the matter is settled.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites should always be kept in the house for the following reasons:

First—Because, if any member of the family has a hard cold, it will cure it.

Second—Because, if the children are delicate and sickly, it will make them strong and well.

Third—Because, if the father or mother is losing flesh and becoming thin and emaciated, it will build them up and give them flesh and strength.

Fourth—Because it is the standard remedy in all throat and lung affections.

No household should be without it.

A TRIPLE SURPRISE.

It Came With a Pleasant Outing in a New Auto Car.

A well known author, who for some years has been an enthusiastic admirer of the automobile, and an amusing experience, which she describes in the Bohemian. A new model always attracted her attention, she declares, and when she came out of the New York hotel where she was staying and saw a fine new car standing unoccupied by the curb she stopped to admire it:

While I examined it and gazed with envy a friend, also interested in autos came down the steps and approached the machine.

"Isn't it stunning!" he said.

I agreed enthusiastically and added that the machine was tantalizing me as I did so long to take a spin, that my chauffeur was ill and that I was afraid to run my car through the city

"Why, I will take you," he said. "I haven't anything to do this afternoon. Where shall we go?"

We got in, and I suggested Coney. To make a long story short, the delightful ride gave us both an appetite. We stopped for dinner and then went out to Sea Gate to call upon friends. As we were crossing the bridge on our way home at about 4 o'clock my friend inquired, "At what garage do you keep your machine?"

At the question a terrible possibility dawned upon me, and with the remembrance of a certain unfamiliarity that he had displayed at the first in regard to the running of the car the situation became instantly clear. He had thought that the machine was mine, and I had been equally secure in the belief that it was his. In other words, we had simply gone off with some one else's property.

You may imagine our feelings. We felt confident that we would be arrested on our way uptown. We rolled up to the hotel inwardly quaking. After much inquiry and explaining we found the indignant owner. Fortunately he knew us slightly and had a well developed sense of humor, in spite of a rather forbidding expression as we first faced him with our unfortunate story. I think he believed us.

His parting remark, however, was rather puzzling, although he said it with evident confidence:

"Whenever you'd like to use the machine again just let me know."

How to Remove Mildew.

Should the clothes be mildewed the stains may be removed by a mixture containing equal parts of soft soap and starch, half as much common salt and the juice of half a lemon. This may be spread over the spots, and the article should be laid on the grass all day and all night (hall the stain on fresh, if necessary.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure
Digests what you eat.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Musical Crowd.

If you have company make them for the time imagine themselves to be a band of musicians, though without the instruments. The leader of the band is supposed to furnish each of the performers with a different musical instrument. Consequently a violin, a harp, a flute, an accordion, a piano, a jewsharp and anything else that would add to the noise are all to be performed at the same time. Provided with an instrument of some description himself, the leader begins playing a tune on his imaginary violoncello, or whatever else it may be, imitating the real sound as well as he can both in action and voice. The others all do the same, the slight presented being, as may well be imagined, exceedingly ludicrous and the noise almost deafening.

In the midst of it the leader quite unexpectedly stops playing and makes an entire change in his attitude and tone of voice, substituting for his own instrument one belonging to some one else. As soon as he does this the performer who has been thus unceremoniously deprived of his instrument takes that of his leader and performs on it instead. Thus the game is continued, every one being expected to carefully watch the leader's actions and to be prepared at any time for making a sudden change.

The one who fails to make the change promptly pays a forfeit.

The Huntsman.

One player is the huntsman. While all the others sit in a circle he gives each one a name, calling one his coat, others his hat, shot, gun, flask, dog, etc.

The huntsman then walks round outside the circle and calls, for instance, for his gun. The player who represents the gun at once gets up, takes hold of the huntsman's belt and walks round after him. The huntsman calls for other accouterments till all the players are going round, each having hold of the player in front of him. When all are running fast by order of the huntsman he suddenly shouts "Bang!" when all, including the huntsman, must let go and rush for seats. One player will necessarily be left out and must pay a forfeit for his failure or he may be counted out of the game and a chair removed. Or the number left behind the one left out may become huntsman and the game go on as before.

The Ocean's Volume.

If we desired to measure the water in the Pacific ocean the figures that we should have to use are almost unreadable. For 200,000,000,000 gallons of water has been said that with the falls of Niagara running at their present stupendous volume it would take the water of the Pacific more than a million years to pass over them. If it were possible to put the water of the Pacific into a hollow sphere it would be necessary to provide one with a diameter of 726 miles. The Atlantic ocean, as all doubtless know, is much smaller than the Pacific, having about 73,000,000,000 gallons, so that the Atlantic might be contained in the Pacific three times. If it were put into a sphere the diameter of the sphere would have to be about 523 miles.—Chicago News.

A Busy Little Chap.

It has been ascertained that the mouse when he is free to range about sleeps only two hours in the twenty-four, or less than any other animal known. During the rest of the time he is on the hunt and probably covers five miles in his runnings. The honeybee sleeps from dark to dawn, and that old saying "as busy as a bee" should be changed to "as busy as a mouse." In four days and nights a mouse will either eat or convey away a pound of cheese. He has always got his appetite with him.

Conundrums.

Why is a dirty child like flannel? Because he shrinks from washing.

What is the difference between a girl of seven and a woman of seventy? One is careless and happy. The other is laziness and sappy.

Why are pianos noble characters? Because they are grand, square and upright.

When is a chicken's neck like a bell? When it is wrung for dinner.

Why is a crow a brave bird? Because it never shows the white feather.

Puzzles With Letters.

What word containing three letters can be expressed by one? For instance:

1. A river? Answer—Dee (D).
2. An insect?
3. A bird?
4. A garden vegetable?
5. A Chinese beverage?
6. A tree?

Answers—2, Bee (B); 3, jay (J); 4, pea (P); 5, tea (T); 6, yew (U).

The Remainder.

Six-year-old Ray's teacher was endeavoring to give some very simple instruction in fractions. She added, "If Jane has six eggs and uses half of them to bake a cake, what part will she have left?" Quickly came the answer, "The shells."

A Christmas Dilemma.

I have two new dollies, and what shall I do?
I am like the old woman who lived in a shoe;
With my eight dear children, four on each knee,
My lap is full as ever it can be.
And now these new ones, their hearts will break!
Yet an inch more sitting room how can I make?
I sympathize truly—indeed, I do—
With the famous old woman who lived in a shoe!

Two Dear Seats.

Sarah Bernhardt while in London once dropped into a bookseller's. "I said her print a pile of books," said the proprietor, "and she seemed pleased. As she was going out she took hold of my pencil and asked me something in French which I did not understand. Seeing that I failed to catch her meaning, she looked about on the counters, then quick as a flash she took up a volume of one of the very best sets of Scott bound in tree calf, opened it at the very center, wrote something quickly, calmly tore out the leaf, handed it to me, smiled and went out." The astonished bookseller looked at the leaf and discovered that Sarah had written a pass for two to her performance that evening. Magnificent, but it was not a cheap entertainment for the bookseller.

New Year's Preparations.

Jings—I notice that Scaldy puts his finger in the glass every time he takes a fresh drink.

Jags—Yes; he wants to keep it moistened so he can turn over that new leaf on the 1st.

A PUZZLING CLIMATE.

The Curious Way Rain Falls in Balmy Honolulu.

A PERPLEXING SPECTACLE.

Downpours Half a Mile Away That Threaten to Drench You Every Moment, but Never Arrive—A Riot of Broken Cut Rainbows in the Valleys.

The most perplexing thing about Hawaii's climate to the new arrival is the matter of rainfall. You begin to experience this perplexity before you have set foot on the dock at Honolulu, when you consult anxiously with your fellow travelers as to the advisability of digging out an umbrella or rainproof before you go ashore. The chances are that you are all convinced that the heavy veil of black clouds which shuts out portions of the mountain scenery from view and the few drops of rain which the fresh shore breeze dashes in your face like flashing jewels torn from that bit of rainbow are warnings to plain to be ignored, and you prepare accordingly for the downpour which seems imminent.

You observe with some surprise that none of the wearers of the dainty costumes you see on the street appear to be in the least perturbed by the possibility of getting caught in the impending shower until after awhile it dawns on you that the storm keeps right on impending—and nothing more. As you ride in a street car along the flashing sea beach, vivid with color of breaking surf and of flowers in trees and hedges along the way, the sunshine never appeared so brilliant. But off to the left in a beautiful little valley nestled like a deep pocket in the mountains and seemingly scarcely half a mile away there can be no doubt of the fact that a good, heavy rain is falling. The sunlight striking through the falling drops fills the valley with a glory of broken cut rainbows—a riot of color that causes the eye to grasp and gather which makes the blemishes of most patches and freckles.

Five minutes later we have come to the foot of a great jagged pile of volcanic rock that marks the vent of a prehistoric volcano, and the red basal sides which support a stunted, mesquite-like growth and a few cacti look as though they hadn't had a good shower for six months. And they probably haven't.

In time one learns that Hawaii's climate is purely a matter of locality that the report of the rainfall for any given time, published by the United States weather bureau, does not mean for every place in the territory nor for the island of Oahu nor even for the city of Honolulu, but only for the observatory rain gauge stands. It would not be true for a place half or three-quarters of a mile away. One learns that he may live in Honolulu and never suffer inconvenience as to precipitation, according to location. In some of the valleys rain falls practically every day of the year and varies in amount at different parts of the same valley, which may be only a mile or two long. There are other sections in which the splendid lawns and bowers of green foliage which surround beautiful homes are only possible through constant irrigation. And there are to be found almost every degree of moisture between these extremes.

Like everywhere else, one finds people of every turn of mind in Honolulu as to the most desirable places in which to live. In sections where the rainfall may amount to two or three hundred inches per year vegetation flourishes most luxuriantly and with a continuous freshness. There is also an absence of humid feeling in the atmosphere or disagreeable dampness which one usually associates with much rainfall. This is accounted for by the fact that the rain comes in showers, of which a dozen or more may come in a day and may occur while the sun is shining brightly, while the never failing trade winds and a porous soil dry up the surface moisture within a few minutes after a shower has passed. The heaviest precipitation also usually occurs at night.

In the dry sections, if one has plenty of water with which to irrigate and Honolulu has a splendid system of waterworks with ample supply), one may more easily control what he would grow and at the same time escape the incompleteness of oft occurring showers. Some of Honolulu's most beautiful residence districts as well as the beautiful Kapiolani park, one of the most beautiful botanical gardens in the world, was originally barren sand plains, practically devoid of vegetation and once thought to be worthless. The necessity was realized to have an old resident refer to "the plains" when speaking of a section of the city in which are located some of the most magnificent homes and beautiful grounds in the whole territory.

The variation of rainfall, together with the difference in temperature due to elevation, give to Hawaii a diversity of climate that can scarcely be equaled in the world, lacking only in extremes of either heat or cold.—Will J. Comer.

Vinol

the famous cod liver and iron medicine, without oil.

Vinol is much better than cod liver oil and emulsions, because, while it contains all the medicinal value they do, it disagrees with no one. As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, after sickness, and for stubborn coughs and colds Vinol is unequaled.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Almond Delight Pie.

Make a rich pastry and fill with the following mixture: Blanch and chop fine one cupful of almonds. Put one cupful of granulated sugar moistened with one teaspoonful of water into a frying pan. Place over a slow fire until melted, then add the chopped almonds, stirring briskly until the mixture turns a golden brown. Turn this out on the crust in the pan and spread quickly before it cools. Beat three eggs, add two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and one and one-half cupfuls of milk, pour over the almonds and bake in a hot oven at first. Cover with a meringue of the white of egg and two tablespoonfuls of sugar.

Moth Patches and Freckles.

Colorless iodine is a good freckle remover. Almost the freckles with the iodine by means of a small camel's hair brush or a swab made by twisting a piece of absorbent cotton around a toothpick. Apply to each freckle night and morning until the skin is red, but not too irritated. The pigment of the freckle is deposited in the upper layer of the skin, and this must be destroyed in order to get rid of the freckle. Lemon juice applied to the skin is one of the best means of keeping the skin clear and white and preventing the deposit of coloring matter which makes the blemishes of most patches and freckles.

Lemon Shampoo.

Pour the juice of three lemons upon two ounces of salts of tartar, add about two quarts of warm water and use as an ordinary shampoo. This will make the hair soft and fluffy and is an excellent cleanser. If one has sufficient time at her disposal it is a good idea to roll the juice bottles the dividual. Strained, one added or fat doses or those with distended nostrils can be easily shaped and brought into normal form. This contrivance is made of thin sheet metal sufficiently malleable to conform to the shape of the nose. The portion coming in contact with the nose has a lining of chamois skin, and the ends are fitted with rubber tubing. This nose shaper is held in place on the nose by bands or tapes, fastening with a buckle. In publishing the details of the device it is well to remind the reader that the bands are nearly dry and then polish with a clean towel. Clean tissue paper is excellent for polishing glasses. They will be more apt to break if you dry them while they are wet, and they are also more inclined to be cloudy.

A Washday Convenience.

An excellent device that would be of great assistance to the housewife is the combined clothes and clothes pin receptacle herewith shown. Ordinarily the wet clothes are carried from the washtub to the yard in an ordinary wicker basket. The dripping water collects in the bottom of the basket, soon rotting and destroying it. The device shown here is made of galvanized wire to prevent rusting. The wash hung with the aid of the device will be clothes pins off, so that when speaking of a section of the city in which are located some of the most magnificent homes and beautiful grounds in the whole territory.

Scorched Milk.

When milk has burned pour it at once into a clean kettle and strain in a basin of cold water until it is cool, when it will be found to be quite free from the burned smell and taste. Even when anything has turned in the double boiler, instead of re-blending the steaming [illegible] water, one cold

Oatmeal Lotion For the Skin.

An [illegible] for the skin is made as follows: [illegible] of oatmeal [illegible] strain [illegible] Dissolve a teaspoonful of white [illegible] juice of one lemon. Add enough of the face lotion to bind, not wiping it all away. This lotion is especially good for all [illegible]

Grease Spots on Wall Paper.

To remove grease spots from wall paper sprinkle baking soda over [illegible] paper, place over the spot and press a moderately warm iron against it for a few minutes. The blotting paper will absorb the grease and the powder the wall be free from spots.

About Bottle Ideas.

A teaspoonful of vinegar tossed into boiled frosting when the flavoring is being added will keep it from becoming hard and breaking when the cake is iced. It will be as moist and nice in a week as the day it was made.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Green Preserved Tomato.

Cut small, smooth, green tomatoes in halves, then quarter the halves. For every pound of the fruit use three-quarters of a pound of granulated sugar. Allow the yellow rind of one lemon to each two pounds of fruit, grated or shaved thin, and the juice. Put the sugar in the preserving kettle with just enough water to dissolve it, add the tomato and lemon and simmer gently until the tomato is tender and transparent. This will keep without sealing, as a rule, but it is better put in small jars or glasses over, as a matter of tidy. It is so rich that only a little can be used at a time.

Chutney Sauce.

For chutney sauce take twelve green sour apples, two green peppers, six green tomatoes, four small onions, a cup of raisins, a quart of cider vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of mustard seed, same of salt, one of powdered sugar, two cups brown sugar, a tablespoonful each of ground mace and ginger. Seed the raisins and peppers, then add tomatoes and onions and chop very fine. Put vinegar, sugar and spices on to boil, add the chopped mixture and simmer an hour. Then add the apples (pared and cored) and cook slowly till soft. Keep in cans or bottles sealed.

Shapes Deformed Noses.

The noses of a great many persons are slightly deformed, and because of the prominence of this feature the appearance of the face is above all else disfigured. Such deformity can frequently be remedied by a gentle but continuous pressure. With the aid of a specially designed "nose shaper" recently patented by a Massachusetts man this result can be brought about in a way that will be painless to the individual. Tightened, one added or fat doses or those with distended nostrils can be easily shaped and brought into normal form. This contrivance is made of thin sheet metal sufficiently malleable to conform to the shape of the nose. The portion coming in contact with the nose has a lining of chamois skin, and the ends are fitted with rubber tubing. WHAT COLORS TELL

The Way the Spectroscope Reads the Sun and Stars.

When one lights a common sulphur match in the dark it is easy for white to notice what happens. First, its phosphorus gives out faint yellow rays, and almost at the same time the sulphur begins to burn with bluish beams.

As yet the flame yields little light. In a moment or two the wood of the match begins to burn and then a stream of clear white light pours forth. Each of the materials of the match—its phosphorus, sulphur and wood—has alone in burning with a color of its own.

In a street lighted by electricity and by gas it is easy to see the great difference between the white rays of the one and the yellow beams of the other. If nitrate of strontia is set on fire we have a splendid red flame. Filings of copper burn with a glow of greenish blue, and a fine, pure blue is had when filings of zinc are ignited. These and other colored substances are used in the making of fireworks with its materials.

Rockets, roman candles and bombs all derive their beauty from the spectrum colors which attend the combustion of their ingredients. And any one who has once seen the colors peculiar to common salt, iron or antimony as they burn in a gas flame or the receding sky will always know what is flame when he sees those colors again.

Sir Isaac Newton was the first to understand that colors of this kind tell a wonderful story. He will know how the stars varied in that—that Arcturus, for example, is more yellow and Sirius, the most glorious of all, white. Might not the colors of a body afame, whether on earth or in the sky, reveal to science by of what that body was composed?

His conception was taken up, and its fruit is that marvel of ingenuity, the spectroscope. One of its principal parts is a prism employed to break up the beam. These have, which are divided by many dark lines, made known to us that the sun and stars are built of such materials as compose our own globe.

Yet more, they tell us what kind of atmosphere surrounds them and, most astonishing of all, give us the rate at which a remote star is moving toward or from the day we behold.—New York Herald.

Local Happenings of Interest. The Freshest and Latest.

All About Yourself, Friends and Acquaintances.

Mr. Tom Oder has bought a farm in Spencer county.

Mr. William Cheatham has bought a Nelson county farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Goodlet have moved to their farm just beyond Willisburg, which he purchased recently.

Mr Oscar Walker sold and delivered last week to the American Tobacco Co., at this place, his crop of tobacco, consisting of 7425 pounds. The crop averaged 18 cents.

Prayer service is being held at the Presbyterian Church this week by the pastor, Rev. R. E. C. Lawson, in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Everybody invited.

Mrs. Elizabeth Goodloe, who purchased the Gray farm, moved from Boyle county this week. Mrs. Goodloe and family are heartily welcomed into this community.

Mr. and Mrs S R. Gray have moved to their new home in Boyle county this week. Mr. and Mrs. Gray came to this county from Harrodsburg ten years ago, and have made many friends here who regret their departure to another county and commend them to the people of Boyle.

Mr. T. E. Willson sold his farm in the Pleasant Grove neighborhood to Mr. W. T. Durrett. The farm is known as the Thomas Browne farm and contains 126 acres. The price paid was $8250 for the tract, or about $60 an acre. Mr. Willson has bought the J M. Elder farm in the edge of Marion county, containing 188 acres, paying $47 50 per acre for it.

Miss Henrietta Jones, of Louisville, is here for the purpose of outting on that delightful comedy "Mrs Wiggs, of the Cabbage Patch." Miss Jones will enlist the assistance of some of Springfield dramatic talent and the entertainment will be given under the auspices of the U. D. C. Miss Jones it will be remembered produced at this place about a year ago the play "Union Depot" which made quite a hit with the local public.

What might have been a very disastrous accident at the home of Mr. J. Rutledge Wharton was narrowly averted by the presence of mind of Mr. Wharton's daughter, Mary, while carrying a lighted lamp down the stairs fell striking the lamp on a step breaking it, the oil igniting and burning fiercely. Mr Wharton smothered the flames with clothing and a blanket, leaving only a badly scorched place on the stair and wall.

We publish this week the statement of the Central Bank of Willisburg, Washington county's youngest banking institution The statement shows a very prosperous condition for so young a bank. The deposits are nearly $43 000, while the loans and discounts amount to over $24,000. They have $20,684.89 due from other banks and besides adding something to the surplus fund have an unpaid dividend of $600.

Mr W. F. Moran and family have moved back to their farm in the Valley Hill neighborhood. Rev. R. L. Purdom has moved in from Texas and will occupy the old McKenney property on Main street; Mr. T. P O'Bryan and family having moved into the Leachman property on Lebanon street. Mr. C W. Starling has moved to his farm in the county and has rented his house on Davison avenue to Rev Wolf.

The Springfield Baptist Church has purchased of C. H McIntire, his house and lot on the northeast corner of Walnut and Main Cross streets, and will tear away the house and begin the erection, early in the spring of a handsome new church building. The edifice is to cost $10,000 or $12,000 and will be finished before the summer is over.

The marriage of Miss Myrtle Croake and Mr. Lee Mudd, both of Fredericktown neighborhood, will be solemnized at Fredericktown by Rev. Father Pieters today. Miss Croake is well known here, where she has a large circle of friends as well as being very popular in her own neighborhood Mr. Mudd is a young man of sterling qualities. The young people have a host of friends who wish them much happiness

The semi-annual statement of the People's Deposit Bank found in this issue of the News Leader that shows during the past six months that bank made net earnings of 10 per cent, paid the stockholders 5 per cent and increased the surplus 9 per cent.

It now has a surplus of $27,500.00 with loans of $325,000 00 deposits $393,689 25; available cash reserve $137,689.74; all which shows it to be a very substantial institution.

The stockholders and patrons should duly appreciate its good management.

Mr. Otho Hatchett and Miss Jeanette McClellan, two well-known young people of the town drove over to Lebanon on Tuesday evening, where they took the south-bound train for Cumberland Gap, Tenn. to be married. Up to the hour of going to press nothing had been heard from the eloping couple, but their friends here are expecting to get word of their having been married according to the plans confided in a few friends previous to their departure. The bride is a daughter of W L. McClellan while the groom is a son of Mr. W. P. Hatchett of Mackville and is employed by J. L Barber, the local hardware dealer.

A Good Showing.

The year 1908 has certainly been a banner year with the First National Bank and its officers are naturally very much elated with its sound financial showing. Never before in the 20 years and more of its history, has it presented a more solid front, or offered better inducements to the prospective depositor or borrower. We publish their statement elsewhere and call attention, among other things, to the 6 per cent semi annual dividend—the gross earnings aggregating $7852.56 in six months—the addition to surplus, the reduction on banking house and the large amount of undivided profits left.

Successful.

That was a clever production given at the Opera House on last Thursday evening by the students of the High School. The "Merchant of Venice", modernized, a clever burlesque of the classic play of that name, was rendered by a lot of talented amateurs, in a way to delight the large audience which had assembled. The play offered opportunity for the display of considerable talent in character acting oy the young men and young ladies who made up the "Dramatic Personale." To mention any especial individual as being better would be unfair to the remainder for they all made a decided hit and the whole production ran smo othly and was quite pleasing to all.

Deaths.

Mrs. Harriet Bush, widow of the late John Bush, died while visiting in Springfield on last Saturday. She had been making her home at Mackville recently, but form rly lived in the Mooresville neighborhood.

Mr. Andrew Edgerton, a well known citizen of the county, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Illiory Osbourne, on last Sunday of the infirmities of age. He was about 80 years old and was a familiar figure about Springfield for many years. He at one time was in the butcher business in the town. His wife preceeded him to the grave about five years ago. The funeral took place at St Rose on Monday.

News of the death of Mrs William Hinton Davis was received by her sister, Mrs Lucien Gregory on Tuesday. Her death was due to typhoid fever which is epidemic at Georgetown where Mr. and Mrs. Davis had lived about three months. Mrs. Davis' maiden name was Lucy Ewing, of Boyle county. She was a woman whose friends were numbered only by her acquaintances and possessed a character of rare sweetness and affability. She leaves a husband and little daughter four years old, her mother, Mrs Julia Ewing, of Perryville, four brothers and three sisters, one of whom is Mrs. Lucien Gregory.

The funeral occurred at Paris today at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Margaret Taylor Hennessy, widow of David Hennessy, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. A. B. Walker, on Tuesday morning, after a long illness of asthma. She was 73 years of age and had been a resident of this county all her life. She was a woman who had the love and respect of a large circle of friends and possessed a strong Christian character. "Aunt Mag" as she was affectionately known delighted in doing deeds of kindness and charity to others. She had no children of her own but bestowed a motherly love and care on several nephews and nieces in the county who cherish her memory with the greatest respect. She was a member of the Springfield Presbyterian church and the funeral took place at that church on Wednesday morning.

Tobacco Sales.

The sale of tobacco at the loose leaf warehouse on Saturday was well attended and the several buyers were present. The market was a shade lower owing perhaps to the heavy offerings. About 100,000 pounds were sold at an average of a little over 17 cents. The following are a few of the sales:

Hamilton & Fowler:—860 lbs at 18½c; 1050 at 18½; 710 at 19½; 510 at 18; 700 at 18½, 595 at 19½.

Grundy & Comstock:—800 lbs at 19½c; 935 at 21c; 1105 at 19½; 670 at 19½c. 720 at 19c.

John Colvin:—360 lbs at 18c; 605 at 20½c, 500 at 18½c.

L. A. Willett:—1190 lbs at 18½c; 2590 at 18½c; 685 at 17c, 375 at 16½c.

Whole sale 100,000 lbs, average price 17.44.

GAMBLING SYSTEMS.

The Chances Are Always Vastly Against the Player.

Just a word about systems of gambling followed by various players. There is no section—some plausible, some ridiculous, some based on elaborate calculations, some giving wonderful results on paper, and all failing woefully at the tables.

"After fifteen years of experience at Monte Carlo," writes a newspaper correspondent, "reading a sum I should be inclined to name, after a thorough investigation of more than 400 different systems and progressions, after having myself been a mathematician, I can say with certainty that it is absolutely impossible for any system to win at Monte Carlo. Sir Hiram Maxim is wrong when he says the chances are ten to one against the player. I say they are a hundred to one against the player."

This is rather an overstatement, for a few players do win, by luck, not by system, or by a system based on luck, as when a man backs the number of his hotel room or a woman backs her age. Perhaps 2 or 3 per cent of the players win occasionally, and the rest lose, not only because of the bank's percentage and the restraining maximum, but because this is a struggle between a man and a machine—a man with nerves and emotions, a machine with no nerves and no emotions. Let the system be ever so perfect, the gambler with strength of will to follow it has not yet been born. If he had such strength of will, he would not be a gambler.—Cleveland Leader.

A SURPRISED CAT.

Gautier's Pet and Its Experience With a Parrot.

Of all cat stories the best is one told by Theophile Gautier, the French novelist. He kept many cats, the favorite being "Madame Theophile," and she was his constant companion by day and night. One day a friend, who was going away a short time, brought Gautier a parrot, to be taken care of during his absence. The bird, finding itself in a strange place, climbed up to the top of its perch in a rather frightened manner. Madame Theophile had never seen a parrot before and regarded the creature with manifest surprise.

After a period spent in profound meditation, summoning up all the notions of natural history she had picked up in the yard, the garden and on the roof, she plainly came to the conclusion that the newcomer was a green chicken. This result attained, the next proceeding of Madame Theophile was to lay herself flat on the floor, like a panther about to make her prey. The parrot did not like this at all; it ruffled its feathers and rattled its chain uneasily. Then Madame Theophile came creeping nearer, her nose quivering, her eyes half closed, while slight thrills of pleasure ran along her backbone at the idea of the meal she was about to make. Another moment and she sprang upon the perch.

The parrot instantly straightened up and said in a deep bass voice, "Have you breakfasted, Jacko?"

This utterance so terrified the cat that she sprang backward. All her ornithological ideas were overthrown. "And on what?" continued the parrot gravely. "On strips?"

The cat cast a glance at her master as if to say: "This is not a bird. It is a gentleman. It talks!" And then she promptly hid herself under the bed, and from that refuge she could not be induced to offer during the whole day.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HIS ALIBI.

It Cleared the Accused, but Furnished an Odd Sequel.

A highly respectable gentleman arrived at York one evening with luggage and dined well, went to bed early, rose in good time and had a substantial breakfast. After this meal he casually asked the landlord if there was anything of special interest in York. "The assizes are on, but I do not know if there is anything particularly interesting in the list," was the response.

"Thanks," drawled the stranger. "I'll look in if I happen to pass the court and see."

He did look in and heard a follower of Dick Turpin in the dock, charged with highway robbery, pleading his innocence vehemently to a stolid judge and jury, who, with firm faces, did not look as if they placed much credence in the prisoner's profession of innocence. Suddenly the prisoner caught sight of the stranger, who had strolled in from the hotel out of curiosity.

"Here, thank God, is some one who can prove my innocence!" cried the prisoner, pointing to the stranger, who was aghast at becoming the center of interest so unexpectedly.

He seemed astonished and shook his head.

"Oh, yes," cried the accused; "just think! You were at Dover—a long way from here. You came out of the Ship hotel, and I took your luggage in a wheelbarrow to the Calais packet at the pier. That was the day I am supposed to have committed the crime up here."

The stranger seemed bewildered. The judge, struck with the tragic earnestness of the prisoner, questioned the stranger, but the latter could not assist him much.

"Have you any notebooks," asked the judge—"any memorandum of your movements on that day?"

"I am a merchant," replied the stranger, "connected with an old established firm of bankers in London. I travel a lot and of course enter everything in my books. Here are my keys if the court cares to send to my hotel and bring here the books out of my case. I can easily settle the point."

The books were fetched. The gentleman had been in Dover that day and had left by the Calais packet. This was sufficient for the judge and jury. The prisoner was acquitted.

Comic sequel: Both the "banker from London" and the highwayman were placed in the same dock shortly afterward charged with daring burglaries in the neighborhood.—Harry Furniss in London Standard.

PEGGY'S ADVICE.

Why It Suddenly Changed From Excellent to Worthless.

It was the era of the first Quincy baby, and the attention of the entire Quincy family, consisting solely of mother and father, was directed to the proper upbringing of the infant. Books on babyhood were bought and digested. Suitable magazines were subscribed for. Friends and mothers were consulted on every point. But, to the wonder of the solicitous Mrs. Quincy declared that the advice that did the most good was that which appeared in the morning paper, signed with the fetching name "Peggy." But the time came when even that was discarded.

"Aren't you going to read me the little lesson from the Journal for today?" asked Mr. Quincy at the breakfast table.

"I shall never read that stuff to any one any more," said the second fiddle.

"Why not? Only day before yesterday you were saying what excellent recommendations Peggy made about crying children. Why do you dance her?"

"I'll tell you, Tom," she said. "I had meant not to say a word about it, because it is so humiliating, but now you've spoken—well, I might as well confess. The paper yesterday said something I didn't quite understand, and, as I was downstairs, I thought I'd just run into the office and ask Peggy what she meant. So I did. The office boy smiled when I asked for Peggy, but he took me up a lot of dirty stairs and then pointed to a door. I knocked, and a voice answered, 'Come in!'"

"What!" queried her husband.

"Well, there isn't any Peggy! Not a woman at all, but a perfectly horrid, grinning man, smoking a cigar. He writes that advice, and what do you think of that, Tom?"

Mrs. Quincy paused in her indignation.

"I thought you found the advice good, as a rule," he objected.

"Tom Quincy, how could a man in a newspaper office write good advice to mothers? I am surprised! You must think you know everything!"—Youth's Companion.

One Way of Getting Out.

Gaston burst like a whirlwind upon his friend Alphonse. "Will you be my witness?" he cried.

"Going to fight?"

"No; going to get married."

Alphonse after a pause inquired, "Can't you apologize?"

A die[illegible] the blues and [illegible] a good meal [illegible] Diapepsin [illegible] works [illegible] no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store, and will relieve the most obstinate case of Indigestion and Upset Stomach in 5 minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from the Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and besides, one triangle will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to begin taking Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to be thoroughly cured of indigestion.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS.

Many Important Measures Enacted by the Majority.

The Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth congresses will go down in history as record breakers because of the large number of important measures enacted, measures having directly to do with the great business interests of the country and standing between the people and corporate greed and oppression. The Fifty-ninth congress opened a new era in American legislation, giving emphasis to the fact that the constitution is amply sufficient for all the needs of the people, safeguarding their interests and furnishing them ample means of protection. The Fifty-ninth congress was a Republican congress, and all the great measures enacted by it were Republican measures, originating with the Republicans and passed by Republican votes.

There is still much to be done to perfect the work begun by the Fifty-ninth congress. Experience has demonstrated that a Democratic congress cannot be depended upon to work out any great system of reform. No reform in administration or in legislation has ever come about under a Democratic regime. As at present constituted the Democratic party is made up of too many isms to be safe in handling great questions of political economy. Two great questions will soon come up for legislation—a revision of the tariff and a remodeling of our currency system. Twice since 1880 the Democrats have attempted tariff legislation, and twice the business of the country was brought to the verge of ruin and hundreds of thousands of workingmen were thrown out of employment. Twice within the last thirty years the Democratic party has set up its standard of monetary legislation. First it declared in favor of putting the printing presses to work in manufacturing greenbacks without limit and, second, by declaring for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. No evidence has been furnished that the party has recanted from its stand for fiat money. Is it safe to trust the party now?

Self Improvement.

Is it asked how can the laboring man find time for self culture? I answer that an earnest purpose finds time or makes it. It seizes on spare moments and turns fragments to golden account. A man who follows his calling with industry and spirit and uses his earnings economically will always have some portion of the day at command. And it is astonishing how fruitful of improvement a short season becomes when eagerly seized and faithfully used. A single hour in the day steadily given to the study of some interesting subject brings unexpected accumulations of knowledge.—William Ellery Channing.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

A PUZZLING CLIMATE.

The Curious Way Rain Falls In Balmy Honolulu.

A PERPLEXING SPECTACLE.

Downpours Half a Mile Away That Threaten to Drench You Every Moment, but Never Arrive—A Riot of Broken Up Rainbows In the Valleys.

The most perplexing thing about Hawaii's climate to the new arrival is the matter of rainfall. You begin to experience this perplexity before you have set foot on the dock at Honolulu, when you consult anxiously with your fellow travelers as to the advisability of digging out an umbrella or mackintosh before you go ashore. The chances are that you are all convinced that the heavy veil of black clouds which shuts out portions of the mountain scenery from view and the few drops of rain which the fresh shore breeze dashes in your face like flashing jewels torn from that bit of rainbow are warnings too plain to be ignored, and you prepare accordingly for the downpour which seems imminent.

You observe with some surprise that none of the wearers of the dainty costumes you pass on the street appear to be in the least perturbed by the possibility of getting caught in the impending shower until after awhile it dawns on you that the storm keeps right on impending—and nothing more. As you ride in a street car along the flashing seabeach, vivid with color of breaking surf and of flowers in trees and hedges along the way, the sunshine never appeared so brilliant. But off to the left in a beautiful little valley tucked like a deep pocket in the mountains and seemingly scarcely half a mile away there can be no doubt of the fact that a good, heavy rain is falling. The sunlight striking through the falling drops fills the valley with a glory of broken up rainbows—a riot of color that causes one to gasp and exclaim in admiration. There can be no doubt that the rain we have seen falling is real and that it is as near as it seems, for the wind now and then carries refreshing dashes of it into the open car, causing a few of the passengers to change their seats to the opposite side. But still the street is perfectly dry and the sunshine as bright as ever.

Five minutes later we leave the car at the foot of a great jagged pile of volcanic rock that marks the vent of a prehistoric volcano, and the red base and sides which support a stunted, mesquite-like growth and a few cacti look as though they hadn't had a good shower for six months. And they probably haven't.

In time one learns that Hawaii's climate is purely a matter of locality; that the report of the rainfall for any given time, published by the United States weather bureau, does not mean for every place in the territory nor for the island of Oahu nor even for the city of Honolulu, but only for the place where the rain gauge stands. It would not be true for a place half or three-quarters of a mile away. One learns that he may live in Honolulu under very different conditions as to precipitation, according to location. In some of the valleys rain falls practically every day of the year and varies in amount in different parts of the same valley, which may be only a mile or two long. There are other sections in which the splendid lawns and bowers of green foliage which surround beautiful homes are only possible through constant irrigation. And there are to be found almost every degree of moisture between these extremes.

Like everywhere else, one finds people of every turn of mind in Honolulu as to the most desirable places in which to live. In sections where the rainfall may amount to two or three hundred inches per year vegetation flourishes most luxuriantly and with a minimum of attention. There is also an absence of humid feeling in the atmosphere or disagreeable dampness which one usually associates with much rainfall. This is accounted for by the fact that the rain comes in showers, of which a dozen or more may come in a day and may occur while the sun is shining brightly, while the never failing trade winds and a porous soil dry up the surface moisture within a few minutes after a shower has passed. The heaviest precipitation also usually occurs at night.

In the dry sections, if one has plenty of water with which to irrigate (and Honolulu has a splendid system of waterworks with ample supply), one may more easily control what he would grow and at the same time escape the inconvenience of oft occurring showers. Some of Honolulu's most beautiful residence districts as well as the beautiful Kapiolani park, one of the most beautiful tropical gardens in the world, was originally barren sand plains, practically devoid of vegetation and once thought to be worthless. The newcomer is often puzzled to hear an old resident refer to "the plains" when speaking of a section of the city in which are located some of the most magnificent homes and beautiful grounds in the whole territory.

The variation of rainfall, together with the difference in temperature due to elevation, give to Hawaii a diversity of climate that can scarcely be equaled in the world, lacking only in extremes of either heat or cold.—Will J. Cooper.

Not the King.

Royal names for hotels are sometimes the cause of peculiar misunderstandings. An aged farmer from a remote county in Canada decided to make a visit to Toronto. It was the first time he had been at a city station and when a hotel crier hurried to him with the interrogation, "King Edward?" the newcomer simply smiled as he answered, "No, sir—Thomas Cox of Eramosa."

Two Dear Seats.

Sarah Bernhardt while in London once dropped into a bookseller's. "I sold her quite a pile of books," said the proprietor, "and she seemed pleased. As she was going out she took hold of my pencil and asked me something in French which I did not understand. Seeing that I failed to catch her meaning, she looked about on the counters, then quick as a flash she took up a volume of one of the very best sets of Scott bound in tree calf, opened it at the very center, wrote something quickly, calmly tore out the leaf, handed it to me, smiled and went out."

The astonished bookseller looked at the leaf and discovered that Sarah had written a pass for two to her performance that evening. Magnificent, but it was not a cheap entertainment for the bookseller.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Almond Delight Pie.

Make a rich pastry and fill with the following mixture: Blanch and chop fine one cupful of almonds. Put one cupful of granulated sugar moistened with one tablespoonful of water into a frying pan. Place over a slow fire until melted, then add the chopped almonds, stirring briskly until the mixture turns a golden brown. Turn this out on the crust in the pan and spread quickly before it cools. Beat three eggs, add two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and one and one-half cupfuls of milk, pour over the almonds and bake in a hot oven at first. Cover with a meringue of the white of egg and two tablespoonfuls of sugar.

Moth Patches and Freckles.

Colorless iodine is a good freckle destroyer. Anoint the freckles with the iodine by means of a small camel's hair brush or a swab made by twisting a piece of absorbent cotton around a toothpick. Apply to each freckle night and morning until the skin is red, but not too irritated. The pigment of the freckle is deposited in the upper layer of the skin, and this must be destroyed in order to get rid of the freckle. Lemon juice applied to the skin is one of the best means of keeping the skin clear and white and preventing the deposit of coloring matter which makes the blemishes of moth patches and freckles.

Lemon Shampoo.

Pour the juice of three lemons upon two ounces of salts of tartar, add about two quarts of warm water and use as an ordinary shampoo. This will make the hair soft and fluffy and is an excellent cleanser. If one has sufficient time at her disposal it is a good idea to boil the juice, boiling the skins with it. This makes a stronger solution of the lemon. A few drops of perfume or attar of roses added will leave a faint scent upon the hair. The mixtures of salts of tartar should never be allowed to stand. It should be mixed fresh for every shampoo.

Washing Thin Glasses.

One often will find that thin glasses are difficult to wash and leave clear and unclouded. Wash them in hot water and pure white soap and rinse them immediately in water of the same temperature and set them aside to drain. Do not wipe them until they are nearly dry and then polish with a clean towel. Clean tissue paper is excellent for polishing glasses. They are more apt to break if you dry them while they are wet, and they are also more inclined to be cloudy.

A Washday Convenience.

An excellent device that would be of great assistance to the housewife is the combined clothes and clothespin receptacle herewith shown. Ordinarily the wet clothes are carried from the washtub to the yard in an ordinary wicker basket. The dripping water collects in the bottom of the basket, soon rotting and destroying it. The basket shown here is made of galvanized wire to prevent rusting. The mesh being wide, the water from the wet clothes readily drains off. At one end is a receptacle for the reception of clothespins, while suitable straps are secured to the back by which it can be supported at some convenient point. These straps are also used to carry the receptacle.

CLOTHES AND CLOTHESPIN HOLDER.

Scorched Milk.

When milk has burned pour it at once into a pitcher and stand it in a basin of cold water until it is cool, when it will be found to be quite free from the burned smell and taste; also when anything has burned in the double boiler, instead of replenishing the steamer part with hot water, use cold for the same effect.

Oatmeal Lotion For the Skin.

An excellent oatmeal lotion for the skin is made as follows: Boil two tablespoonfuls of fine oatmeal and then strain. When cold add one dessertspoonful of wine and the juice of one lemon. Fluff over the face before going to bed, not wiping it all away. This lotion is especially good for sallow complexions.

Grease Spots on Wall Paper.

To remove grease spots from wall paper sprinkle baking soda over blotting paper, place over the spot and press a moderately warm iron against it for a few minutes. The blotting paper will absorb the grease and the paper on the wall be free from spots.

About Brittle Icing.

A teaspoonful of vinegar beaten into boiled frosting when the flavoring is being added will keep it from being brittle and breaking when the cake is cut. It will be as moist and nice in a week as the day it was made.

Making a Job of It.

Pat, who had a weakness for the wine of the country, once did a day's work for an Irish village priest and labored so nobly that when he begged for a drink at the end of it the kind man had not the heart to refuse.

"'Tis a nail in your coffin all the same, Pat," said he, as he poured out a couple of fingers.

"It is that, your riverence," said Pat, as he drained the glass, "but now that ye've the hammer in your hand, ye moight as well dhroive in another!"

How to Make Use of Funnels.

Several funnels made of stiff paper and kept on hand in the kitchen will be found a great convenience. They are unequaled for use when emptying cereals, coffee or other dry articles into glass jars or into the cans in which they are kept.

New Year's Preparations.

Jings—I notice that Soakly wets his finger in the glass every time he takes a fresh drink.

Bings—Yes; he wants to keep it moistened so he can turn over that new leaf on the 1st.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Musical Crowd.

If you have company make them for the time imagine themselves to be a band of musicians, though without the instruments. The leader of the band is supposed to furnish each of the performers with a different musical instrument. Consequently a violin, a harp, a flute, an accordion, a piano, a jewsharp and anything else that would add to the noise are all to be performed at the same time. Provided with an instrument of some description himself, the leader begins playing a tune on his imaginary violoncello, or whatever else it may be, imitating the real sound as well as he can both in action and voice. The others all do the same, the sight presented being, as may well be imagined, exceedingly ludicrous and the noise almost deafening.

In the midst of it the leader quite unexpectedly stops playing and makes an entire change in his attitude and tone of voice, substituting for his own instrument one belonging to some one else. As soon as he does this the performer who has been thus unceremoniously deprived of his instrument takes that of his leader and performs on it instead. Thus the game is continued, every one being expected to carefully watch the leader's actions and to be prepared at any time for making a sudden change.

The one who fails to make the change promptly pays a forfeit.

The Huntsman.

One player is the huntsman. While all the others sit in a circle he gives each one a name, calling one his coat, others his hat, shot, gun, flask, dog, etc.

The huntsman then walks round outside the circle and calls, for instance, for his gun. The player who represents the gun at once gets up, takes hold of the huntsman's belt and walks round after him. The huntsman calls for other accouterments till all the players are going round, each having hold of the player in front of him. When all are running fast by order of the huntsman he suddenly shouts "Bang!" when all, including the huntsman, must let go and rush for seats. One player will necessarily be left out and must pay a forfeit for his failure or he may be counted out of the game and a chair removed, or if so arranged beforehand the one left out may become huntsman and the game go on as before.

The Ocean's Volume.

If we desired to measure the water in the Pacific ocean the figures that we should have to use are almost unreadable—200,000,000,000,000 gallons. It has been said that with the falls of Niagara running at their present stupendous volume it would take the water of the Pacific more than a million years to pass over them. If it were possible to put the water of the Pacific into a hollow sphere it would be necessary to provide one with a diameter of 720 miles. The Atlantic ocean, as all doubtless know, is much smaller than the Pacific, having about 73,000,000,000,000 gallons, so that the Atlantic might be contained in the Pacific three times. If it were put into a sphere the diameter of the sphere would have to be about 533 miles.—Chicago News.

A Busy Little Chap.

It has been ascertained that the mouse when he is free to range about sleeps only two hours in the twenty-four, or less than any other animal known. During the rest of the time he is on the hustle and probably covers five miles in his runnings. The honeybee sleeps from dark to dawn, and that old saying "as busy as a bee" should be changed to "as busy as a mouse." In four days and nights a mouse will either eat or convey away a pound of cheese. He has always got his appetite with him.

Conundrums.

Why is a dirty child like flannel? Because he shrinks from washing.

What is the difference between a girl of seven and a woman of seventy? One is careless and happy. The other is hairless and cappy.

Why are pianos noble characters? Because they are grand, square and upright.

When is a chicken's neck like a bell? When it is wrung for dinner.

Why is a crow a brave bird? Because it never shows the white feather.

Puzzles With Letters.

What word containing three letters can be expressed by one? For instance:

1. A river? Answer—Dee (D).
2. An insect?
3. A bird?
4. A garden vegetable?
5. A Chinese beverage?
6. A tree?

Answers—2, Bee (B); 3, jay (J); 4, pea (P); 5, tea (T); 6, yew (U).

The Remainder.

Six-year-old Ray's teacher was endeavoring to give some very simple instructions in fractions. She added, "If Jane has six eggs and uses half of them to bake a cake, what part will she have left?" Quickly came the answer, "The shells!"

A Christmas Dilemma.

I have two new dollies, and what shall I do?
I am like the old woman who lived in a shoe.
With my eight dear children, four on each knee,
My lap is as full as ever it can be.
And how these new ones, their hearts will break!
Yet an inch more sitting room how can I make?
I sympathize truly—indeed, I do—
With the famous old woman who lived in a shoe!

The Storm Nose at Sea.

The picturesque name of storm nose (Gewitternase) is given in Germany to the wave of high barometric pressure which often precedes a storm or a heavy squall. The barometer rises suddenly and then falls more gradually. It is believed that this phenomenon is responsible for sudden changes in the level of the sea. Observations on the seas surrounding Denmark have led to the conclusion that the change of level thus produced sometimes amounts to no less than three feet.—Youth's Companion.

The Devil's Knell.

Among the famous bells of Dewsbury, Yorkshire, England, is one known as "Black Tom of Soothill," which was presented to the church in expiation of a murder. "Black Tom" is always rung on Christmas eve. Its solemn tolling as it strikes the first tap at exactly midnight is known all over Yorkshire as the "devil's knell," it being the notion that when Christ was born the devil died.—London Standard.

A Bad Sign

Irregularity is bad in every department of life, in meals, in sleeping hours, but especially when it is a question of womanly habit. Not only is it a sign of female disease, but, unless cured, it will cause dangerous troubles, because of the poisons thus allowed to remain in the system.

If you suffer in this way, get a bottle of

Wine of Cardui

Mrs. Lucinda Johnson, of Fish Creek, Wis., writes: "I suffered for fourteen (14) years with irregularity, causing great pain. At last I tried Cardui, and now I am cured." At all druggists, in $1 bottles.

WHAT COLORS TELL.

The Way the Spectroscope Reads the Sun and Stars.

When one lights a common sulphur match in the dark it is worth while to notice what happens. First, its phosphorus gives out faint yellow rays, and almost at the same time the sulphur begins to burn with bluish beams.

As yet the flame yields little light. In a moment or two the wood of the match takes fire, and then a stream of clear white light pours forth. Each of the materials of the match—its phosphorus, sulphur and wood—has shone in burning with a color of its own.

In a street lighted by electricity and gas the eye detects at once the difference between the white rays of the one and the yellow beams of the other. If nitrate of strontia is set on fire we have a splendid red flame. Filings of copper burn with a glow of greenish blue, and a fine, pure blue is had when filings of zinc are ignited. These and other such substances furnish the maker of fireworks with his materials.

Rockets, roman candles and bombs all derive their beauty from the special tints which attend the combustion of their ingredients. And any one who has once seen the colors peculiar to common salt, iron or antimony as they trace themselves on the evening sky will always know what is aflame when he sees those colors again.

Sir John Herschel was the first to understand that colors of this kind tell a wonderful story. He will knew how the stars varied in tint—that Aldebaran was ruddy, Arcturus yellow and Sirius, the most glorious of all, white. Might not the colors of a body aflame, whether on earth or in the sky, really be telling us of what that body was composed?

His suggestion was taken up, and its fruit is that marvel of ingenuity, the spectroscope. One of its principal parts is a prism employed to break up the hues. These hues, which are divided by many dark lines, make known to us that the sun and stars are built of such materials as compose our own globe.

Yet more, they tell us what kind of atmosphere surrounds them and, most astonishing of all, give us the rate at which a remote star is moving toward or from the tiny orb we inhabit.—New York Herald.

Thud.

Green—I shaved off my mustache yesterday.

Brown—Yes; I noticed. Quite a fowufall, wasn't it?—Judge.

Prisoner Led Policeman to Station.

The friends of a young Irish policeman who is a champion athlete are much amused at a story that is being told about him. A short time ago he was assigned to look after peddlers in an east side street. One peddler was very troublesome. He refused to keep in line, although warned in a gentle way. The policeman, who is noted for his cheerful and genial disposition, finally had his good nature ruffled and said:

"Go to the station."

The peddler went, and the policeman with him. When he was arraigned, the lieutenant and detectives who lounged around noticed that the big policeman, whom they all knew, could not control his mirth.

"What's the joke?" asked the lieutenant.

"I told this fellow to go to the station, and he went. Sure, I never saw the place before myself, and I didn't know how to get here."—New York Sun.

How to Remove Rust Spots.

Whenever the ordinary hooks and eyes have been used on light colored frocks there are almost sure to be spots of iron rust as a result. The very first thing to do is to rip off the fasteners and get the rustless kind.

Then rub each spot of rust with salt of lemon and wash out thoroughly. It may be necessary to repeat this two or three times, but it is worth the trouble. If you haven't this preparation use plain lemon juice. Soak the salt in it, put it on the spot and expose to the sun.

How to Remove Mildew.

Should the clothes be mildewed the stains may be removed by a mixture containing equal parts of soft soap and starch, half as much common salt and the juice of half a lemon. This may be spread over the spots, and the article should be laid on the grass all day and all night until the stain entirely disappears.

Eat What

You want of the food you need Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly.

When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you.

This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you.

It would bankrupt us.

The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.
